

NOTE: on Raffles. From the Gambling Act:

http://www.gregsregs.com/downloads/SPGamblingLaw13\_2011Gambling.pdf

---

The law does not regulate on permanent raffles; therefore, they cannot be held or marketed, for they are considered illegal in accordance with article 5.3 of the Gambling Act, Law 13/2011 of 27 May. Therefore, currently only occasional or sporadic raffles may be held.

A raffle is understood to be a type of game that consists in adjudicating one or several prizes by means of holding a raffle or random selection among the people who have purchased tickets or any other documents or supports for participating that are different to one another, whether they are of a material, computerised, telematic or interactive nature. The raffle takes place on a previously determined date and always when an economic contribution has been required for playing. Raffle prizes may include movable or fixed assets, livestock or rights linked to the same, as long as the prizes are not money (Art. 3d Gambling Act 13/2011)